Office Hours: TBA

Short description:

The course deals with Israeli society and focuses in particular upon the construction of the Israeli historical narrative as an identity-building narrative, intending to inculcate a collective memory to a diverse society. We will focus on key events and essential representations that shaped the collective identity of the Israeli society from the beginning of the Zionist movement till the present. We will also discuss the changes that the Israeli society has experienced in the last generation and how they have affected its politics and culture. Among other topics we will discuss issues such as Religious-Zionism, Post-Zionism, Privatization and Americanization, the Holocaust's increasing role in the historical narrative, diversity and multiculturalism, and the enduring conflict with the Palestinians and the Arab world.

Assessment:

Minor assignments: 2 page essay analysis – 10%

Midterm: 4-5 page analysis of an historical issue based on Amos Oz memoir A Tale of Love and Darkness - 20%

Final requirement: 6-8 pages take home exam based on class material - 50%

Participation - 20%
