Short Description
This course will equip students with the basic tools, skills and frameworks of strategy. Students will gain insights into processes that enable firms to gain a competitive advantage and create value, methods to analyze a strategic situation in today’s changing business environment, tools to identify and choose a superior competitive position based on a competitive advantage, and to allocate resources when planning the implementation of a chosen strategy.

We will start by defining the logic of strategy, continue with understanding the firm and its core competencies and then learn how to analyze the external competitive environment. Following these insights, we will assess how a firm can select a competitive position within its environment, one that enables its sustainable value creation. We will learn how to analyze alternative strategic choices, based on evaluating the opportunities and uncertainties, and discuss key factors in implementing a successful strategic plan.

The learning process will be based on theory and examples from different companies which we know from our day-to-day life. Course assignments will provide students with experience of real business scenarios and enable them to apply theories which have been studied in the classroom.

Final grade components
15% - In Class participation. Participation in the discussion (attendance and asking questions don’t count as participation).
15% - A personal work.
70% - Final Assignment will be conducted in groups of 4-5.
The work will be submitted in three parts, following the course’s three modules. Each work will be presented and discussed in class. Specific instructions will be given during the first class.

Attendance
Attendance is mandatory. Students are permitted a maximum of three absences without penalty. Any additional absences will affect the final grade and may result in failure of the course.
If teaching will be on zoom, based on university instructions, students will be required to participate with Open Cameras.
